

Thank you for Making a Difference!

Thank you for helping the Amani children- your hard work truly makes a difference in their lives. It is only because of people like you that Amani Children's Home exists today. By sharing about the Amani children with the people in your community, you are helping to ensure that the Amani kids continue to receive education, nutrition, health care, and love. People everywhere do want to help and you are giving them the opportunity to bring hope and life to children in need.

No matter who you are or what your experience, you have unique gifts and talents that can bring help to the kids. In this packet, we have included information about Amani, fundraising tips and ideas, and advice on presentations. Thank you again for the important work you are doing.

Amani in Five Minutes or Less

If you only have five minutes to share with someone about Amani (or even if you have much longer!), helping someone understand these few points (in your own words of course) will give them a good idea of what makes Amani so special.

- Amani provides homeless children with a safe home, nutritious food, clothing, education, and health and counseling services. Amani is located in the Kilimanjaro region of Tanzania, East Africa.
- Amani aims to reunite children with their relatives whenever possible. Amani is different from a typical orphanage, as we strive to give each child the chance to grow up in a loving family.
- Amani provides opportunities to the child's family as a whole that will improve their lives, help them to be self-sustainable, and increase the likelihood of a successful reunification with the child.
- Amani is a small grass-roots organization. As a small organization staffed primarily by Tanzanians, Amani is in a unique position to effectively address the needs of the local community. Also, Amani's administration costs are small. This means we use the highest percentage of donations to directly help the children – every donation makes a difference. Also, because of our small size, many people develop a friendly and personal connection to the Amani kids and staff.
- Amani is a financially responsible organization. We are externally audited annually and governed by an external Board of Trustees.

We invite you to learn more about Amani's programs by visiting our website at: www.amanikids.org

	The Challenges Tanzanians Face...	The Difference Amani Makes...
Nutrition	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• 38% of children are moderately or severely stunted for their age, implying significant chronic malnutrition.</li> <li>• 22% are underweight.</li> <li>• 20% (around 4 million kids) live below the food poverty line, meaning their family's income could not provide enough food to satisfy their minimum nutritional requirements.</li> </ul>	The children at Amani receive three nutritious meals a day to help them become healthy and active. Children reunited with families that require special assistance receive additional food aid after they leave Amani.
HIV/AIDS	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• 6% of adults aged 15-49 are HIV positive.</li> <li>• 730,000 children have been orphaned because of AIDS.</li> </ul>	Amani's nurse teaches weekly health classes, where she dispels common myths about HIV and equips the students with facts. In addition, each month volunteer HIV/AIDS teachers come to Amani to give lessons, using creative methods to help the children understand and remember.
Education	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Tanzania has one of the lowest percentages of people who have attended secondary school (7%) of any nation.</li> <li>• The primary school completion rate is 54%.</li> <li>• 55% of boys and 38% of girls contributing to school expenses through casual labor.</li> </ul>	Amani expands the horizons of formerly homeless children by giving them the opportunities an education brings. We sponsor hundreds of children at local primary and secondary schools, vocational training centers, and in our own on-site educational program.

Amani Fundraising 101

There are many different ways you can raise money for the Amani children and awareness about child homelessness. Fundraising is a rewarding experience that provides nutritious food, clothing, a quality education, and a safe place to grow and learn for the Amani children. It can also be a lot of fun! Below are suggestions that can help you be effective in your fundraising for the Amani kids. Remember—whatever amount you raise will make a big difference in Tanzania!

- Make a plan. Successful fundraisers begin with a plan. Ask yourself what skills and resources you and your friends have to work with. Decide when to hold your event and set a goal of how much money you want to raise.

- Tell a story about one of the Amani children. Help people make a personal connection with the Amani kids with photos and stories (you can refer to the “Meet Our Kids” section on our website). It helps people to realize their donations are going to help real children - with names, histories, and favorite games - and to “put a face” to those they are helping.

- Tell people why you are excited to support Amani. One supporter said, “I think what works is your own enthusiasm which is then transmitted to other people... Once Amani has got under your skin then people are happy to give.”

- Raise money for something specific that the Amani children need. Giving towards something tangible is very meaningful for people. This could be a year’s worth of medicine, new mattresses, or books for the school library. Email us and we’ll be glad to provide you with a list of our current needs.

- Work with the communities you are involved in. There are so many communities and people you and your family are involved with in your daily lives: workplaces, religious organizations, friends, neighborhoods, clubs, etc. Brainstorm about how you could encourage people to get involved in helping the Amani kids.

- Make it easy to give. Whatever the nature of your fundraising efforts, make it easy for people to give on the spot. For this, it is helpful to have a basket in a specific location for people to leave their donations. Let them know the various ways that they can donate and provide copies of the Helping Hands sign-up sheet.

- Provide them with information to take away. See page 12 for a list of resources Amani can send you. Make sure people know about our website, www.amanikids.org.

Every Donation Counts

Your money can go a long way in Tanzania. Here are some of the things that the money you raise can buy for the Amani children.

$100 25 textbooks

$250 33 pairs of shoes

$500 60 school uniforms

$1,000 Enough desks and chairs for one classroom

$5,500 Will fully pay for 5 children to complete their secondary school education at a government school

- Get contact information. We want to make sure to thank everyone who helps the children. Once you've completed your fundraising, please send us your supporters' names, addresses, and how much they gave - so we can send them a thank-you letter promptly. Also, if someone would like to receive our email newsletters, just let us know and we'll add them to the list. See the Donation and E-Newsletter Sign-Up Sheets at the end of this document.
- The Friends of Amani are available as a resource. The Friends of Amani (FOA) is an international network of volunteers who are united in Amani's mission. Official FOA exist in the USA, UK, and Canada. FOA are registered charities in their countries and can provide tax receipts for donations. You can reach them at:

FOA Canada: foa.ca@amanikids.org
 FOA United Kingdom: foa.uk@amanikids.org
 FOA United States: foa.us@amanikids.org

"Very occasionally in a lifetime you find yourself in the middle of something that you know is fundamentally good, right and presses all the wholesome buttons in your character. You feel - in exactly the right ratio - anger that such lovely kids have endured the tragedies that have driven them onto the streets; shame that the world is largely indifferent; joy and pleasure to be in a position to do something; and, lastly, pride to be associated with the people who, hour by hour, day after day, year in and year out work tirelessly to give back to those kids the things they have lost. They receive security, food, health care, a home, an education and lots and lots of what they most need: love."
Robin and Debbie Carmichael

"At Amani, we feel that we are helping children who, without the support of their parents, are growing up in one of the poorest nations on earth. What worthier cause can there be than that? And the U.S. Dollar goes so far in Tanzania; for the price of a pair of tennis shoes in the USA, you can send a child to school for a year in Tanzania! It is very inspiring to read the histories of the children that we get from Amani, and how much their lives have been changed for the better; that encourages me to continue giving." Dick and Karin Bergesen

Fun for Everyone Part 1

Tanzania Fun Day

Invite your friends for a day of Tanzanian food, art and games - we can send you art from the children and fun game suggestions. Decorate the venue with colorful Tanzanian fabric - we can send you some!

Cathie and her friends held a Tanzania Fun Day at her church to raise money for the Amani children. She prepared games and activities for the children, made traditional Tanzanian dishes, and displayed artwork from Amani.

Pancake Breakfast

Don't forget the syrup! You can even offer flavored syrups, like blueberry or peach, if you want to make it more fun and tasty. Charge a small fee and set out a donation bucket for Amani. This kind of fundraiser is great for weekends, after a soccer match or church service.

Bake Sale

Ask your friends to bake their favorite cake or pie, or to make a batch of their favorite cookies. You will want to package items individually (single cookies) and in larger groups (plates of cookies) so that you have something for everyone. Clearly label all items with a price and ingredients list. On the day of the sale, set everything up on a long table.

Movie Marathon

Pop some popcorn, dim the lights, and settle in for a night of movie magic! Rent some African themed movies. There's lots of good options - fun classics like John Wayne's Hatari, moving dramas like Nowhere in Africa and Constant Gardener, and action-packed thrillers like Blood Diamond. Before the movie starts introduce Amani to your guests and ask them to donate. You could show the Amani DVD before or after your movie. It can be a fun family event, or a great date night for the grown ups. You could even cook some traditional Tanzanian dishes - we can give you recipes.

Fun for Everyone Part 2

Run a Race for Amani

Search online for a Fun Run, 5K or even a marathon being held in your area. Ask your friends to sponsor you. Turn your personal challenge into a great fundraiser for the Amani kids!

Cosmin ran in the Hartford Marathon to raise support for the Amani children in October 2008. "Wearing an Amani T-shirt during the race was very empowering," said Cosmin.

No Dirty Dishes For a Week

No one likes to wash dirty dishes and sometimes it's hard to find the time to make a home cooked meal. Ask local restaurants if they are willing to donate a dinner for two. Tell them that you are looking to raffle off a whole week of dining out at local restaurants to raise money for the Amani children. Let them know that they will receive free advertising at your event. Selling raffle tickets for this event is easy!

Board Game Tournament

Create a fun twist on a card tournament and do something that everyone can participate in. Have a Board Game Tournament. Pick a favorite, such as Sorry, Trouble, or Settlers of Catan. Assemble 4 person teams that will work together to accumulate points or you can allow individuals to participate. Charge an entry fee for each team, in order to earn money for the Amani children. Give Tanzanian batik fabric or drawings by the Amani children for prizes.

Plan a Dance-A-Thon

Or any type of "a-thon". A 24-hour dance-a-thon is an easy and fun fundraiser. Ask people to sign up to participate. They can either dance as couples or alone. Then have the participants get pledges from the community. Amani can send you Tanzanian batik fabric or drawings by the Amani children for prizes.

How Many in That Jar?

You will need your best guessing skills for this fundraiser. Grab a large jar and something to fill it with. Pick something like candy covered chocolates, nails, or marbles. You will also need index cards or slips of paper with lines marked for name, phone number, and guess. Set the jar in a public spot and have someone selling guess slips for one or two dollars. People are welcome to submit as many guesses as they are willing to pay for. Have a box for placing guess slips into. Announce the winner and give them a Tanzanian prize!

At School or Work Part 1

Head Shaving

Find a school teacher or principal willing to shave their head for your fundraiser - or do it yourself! Someone who has long hair would be ideal, because they will seem to be giving up more and people will be more willing to donate. Have a public head shaving when your goal has been met. Some charities will collect donated hair to make wigs for cancer patients.

Tajari, age 12, cut her hair and asked for pledges for each inch she cut to help raise money for Amani. Her hair was 42 inches long before her big day at the salon!

Grown Up Spelling Bee

Use a classic childhood competition to raise money for the Amani children. Have a grown up spelling bee. You can either collect an entry fee to raise money, or charge an admission fee to the audience. Use the official spelling bee rules, such as asking for a definition of a word and asking to use it in a sentence. Give each participant a certificate and award the winner with Tanzanian batik fabric or drawings by the Amani children.

Going to the Dogs

Give your employees the chance to bring their dog to work for a day. Set a day and a price for the day. Most people would probably be willing to pay fifteen to twenty five dollars. You'd be surprised at how much people are willing to pay for a day with their dog!

Pennies From Heaven

This fundraiser will create a healthy competition amongst classes, homerooms, or Sunday school classes while letting the students work together for a common goal. Each class will have a jar to collect pennies in. One penny equals one vote towards the class. To make it interesting and raise more money, let any other coin denomination equal a vote against the class. For instance, a nickel would equal five votes against the class. Keep each classes jar in a public location to allow anyone to cast a vote for or against a class. Empty each jar at the end of the day and keep a running total. Let this fundraiser run for at least a week to give everyone a chance to bring in their pennies.

Face Painting

The Amani children love to have their faces painted. Set up a face painting booth at the next craft show or fair in your town. Enlist the help of your friends and family to paint faces. You could charge as little as a dollar for simple art work or up to five dollars or more for elaborate ones. As your young customers walk around they will drive more customers to you. Offer instant photos of the face painting for a dollar more, so they have a lasting memory. Visit www.face-painting-fun.com for ideas and face painting designs.

Butler Auction

This fundraiser will probably prove to be very popular with the underclassmen at your high school. Let the seniors' auction themselves off to be a butler for a day. Butler responsibilities would be to greet their "employer" as they arrive for school, carry their books, fetch their lunch, etc. Get volunteers willing to auction themselves off for the day to the highest bidder.

Teacher/Boss Payback

This requires a willing teacher or boss. You pick several activities, like shaving a beard, dying their hair, wearing a clown suit for a day, making coffee for a week, washing employee's cars, or cleaning the bathrooms. You put the details of each activity on a jar and put the jars out where students or co-workers can deposit money in them to "vote" for the activity they want done. At the end of the week, count the money in each jar. The jar with the most money is the winner, and the teacher or boss has to perform that task. Make sure to get photos!

Dress Down Day

Pay for the privilege to come to work or school for the day in casual clothes. (Or if your school doesn't wear uniforms, you could do a "Hat Day.") Get permission from your boss or principal first. Then pass around a sign-up sheet that explains why you're raising money for the Amani children, and a suggested donation of $5-10.

Think Global, Act Local

Buckets for Donations

Gather old coffee cans and punch holes in the top. Print out a cover sheet with information about Amani. Cover the cans with your cover sheet and then distribute them to local businesses willing to place them on their front counter. Approach the store manager and have a professional looking cover sheet that tells about the Amani children and your goals of fundraising (we'd be glad to help!). Drop by every week or two to empty out the cans and collect the money. Make sure you update the store manager on your progress and thank them for helping!

Deposit Bottle Collection

This fundraiser works great in areas with a returnable bottle deposit or with money for scrap collection facilities. Create a flyer with information about why you are collecting money for Amani (we can help!). Pick a collection day and instruct people to place their returnable bottles and cans on the front porch by 9:00 AM. Distribute the flyers house to house in local neighborhoods. Give a few days notice to leave people time to collect their bottles and cans, but not enough time to forget.

Car Wash

A car wash is a great way to raise vital funds for the Amani kids. If you don't have access to a water source, or want to be environmentally friendly, and save hundreds of gallons of water, why not have a car detailing day. You and your friends could clean just the interiors of cars, and either charge a flat fee or ask for donations. You'll need paper towels (or old towels and newspapers), glass cleaner, and cleaners for vinyls and leather. If you have access to electricity, bring a heavy duty vacuum cleaner for the car's carpet and upholstery.

For the Grown Ups

Kissing Contest

Would you pucker up to raise money for the Amani children? Well it shouldn't surprise you that when you leave the dreaded, or wonderful (depending on who you're talking to) Kiss Fundraiser in the hands of creative kids or adults alike, they can come up with some pretty inventive things to kiss—a pig, a goat, your boss, your teacher, grandma, a man dressed in drag...you name it!

Bachelor/Bachelorette Auction

Calling all eligible bachelors and bachelorettes! Help raise vital funds for the Amani kids and meet some new people while doing so. Host a Bachelor/Bachelorette Auction. Volunteer yourself and your friends to be auctioned off to the highest bidder for a night on the town. www.ehow.com/video\_2201633\_organizing-bachelor-auction.html has a video that will walk you through how to host a successful event.

Amateur Poker Night

Host a fun amateur's night of poker playing to raise money for the Amani children. Ask your friends and family to volunteer to be dealers. They should know the rules of the game pretty well. For an entry fee everyone is entered into the tournament and given a set amount of poker chips. You may want to play a practice round so that everyone has a chance to learn the rules. The winner at each table will move to the next round. We can send you Tanzanian batik fabric or drawings by the Amani children as prizes.

Karaoke Night

There is a hidden singer in all of us. You will want to find a place to host your karaoke night. Find a place that rents karaoke machines and see if they will give you a deal because it is a fundraiser. Tell them you will give them free advertising during the event. Of course, alcoholic beverages tend to get karaoke going, if that is appropriate for your group. Charge an entry fee and give a discount to those willing to sing to ensure there is entertainment. Allow people to sing solo or in groups. Have an emcee to keep things flowing. Encourage those who did a great job and got the audience going to sing again.

Mary and her friends know how to lay down a rhythm. They meet weekly to play African drums, similar to those used by the Amani children. Mary asked the children of Amani to decorate sashes to wrap around their drums. She sold the sashes to her friends and donated the money to Amani.

A Season of Giving

All Saints' Day Cleanup

Little ghosts and goblins can wreak havoc on yards and pumpkins during Halloween. Have an All Saints' Day cleanup for your next fundraiser. Create a flyer about your group and why you're raising money for the Amani kids (we can help if you want). Advertise locally with signs and in your local newspaper that you will be going around the day after Halloween cleaning up yards for a donation. Of course it will be more fun if you can recruit a few friends!

Rake-a-thon

It seems like all the leaves fall from the trees at once in the fall. It can be a time consuming task, but a great way to raise money for the Amani kids. Make a flyer about Amani and your rake-a-thon fundraiser, and distribute it door to door. Let people know you will be in their neighborhood on a specific day, rake in hand, to clean up their yard for a donation to Amani.

Wrap It Up!

The holidays are busy and people are willing to pay for certain services to save time. One of the most popular holiday services is gift wrapping. Contact a local shopping mall about setting up a booth during the busy holiday shopping season. Either charge a set amount per box wrapped or accept donations. People may be more generous with the donation, especially if you have a flyer talking about the Amani kids.

Christmas Carolers

The holidays are jolly and nothing sets the mood better than singing! Dress in Santa or elf hats. Go around your local neighborhood, knock on doors and begin singing. Be respectful of those who ask you to leave. Take requests from those that ask you to stay. Hand them your flyer and say that donations are optional. You just want to spread Holiday cheer, but if they would like to help it is very much appreciated.

Hugs and Kisses

This is a great fundraiser to run around the romantic holidays (Valentine's Day, Sweetest Day, etc.) or at the end of the school year for farewells. Package Hershey's hugs and kisses candies (the little foil wrapped chocolates) in pretty cellophane bags with a blank note card. On the note card have a location for the students' full name and their homeroom location. Either have the made up bags available for purchase or offer to hand deliver them to homerooms on a specific day. Have a donation box that students, teachers, and others can contribute to for the Amani kids.

Val organized a sky-dive fundraiser with Friends of Amani US in September 2008. Donors sponsored Val and her friends to take the plunge and the money landed at Amani Children's Home!

Babu and Juliana are just two of the hundreds of children whose lives will be touched by your kindness.

Meet Babu

Babu is one of the youngest kids at Amani. He was born in rural Moshi. When he was just a baby, his mother was murdered.

Because his father left before he was born, he was raised by his grandparents who were very poor and struggled to provide for him. Babu became malnourished. The leader of his local village brought him to Amani where he has grown into a strong, healthy, and confident boy. He just began primary school in Amani's education program.

Meet Juliana

Juliana is 12 years old. Her parents struggled to find a job to support the family and they turned to begging on the streets. They often used Juliana to help them get money. The many years living on the street took their toll on her parents and they often treated Juliana with cruelty. She ran away and was rescued by Amani street educators in 2004. Amani teachers worked closely with her, and now she's excelling at school. Juliana enjoys jumping rope and playing handclapping games with her friends.

Good luck and have fun!

Sponsor Me to Climb Mt. Kilimanjaro

Help raise vital support for vulnerable children in East Africa

At the foot of Mt. Kilimanjaro in Moshi, Tanzania, Amani Children's Home rescues street children and orphans from homelessness and restores hope in their lives. Amani provides children off the street with a safe and loving home, education, medical care, healthy food, and counseling. Amani, which means "peace" in Swahili, has been a haven of peace for homeless children since its founding in 2001.

Standing at 5895 m (19,340 ft), Mt. Kilimanjaro is Africa's highest peak and the world's tallest free-standing mountain. Mt. Kilimanjaro is actually a dormant volcano which is covered year round with snow and ice.
